MAJOR IN PHILOSOPHY

Bachelor of Arts degree, the major in philosophy includes courses in the history of philosophy, logic, recent or contemporary philosophy.

The student’s major may embody one of several possibilities; for example, a historical emphasis, an applied philosophy focus, a problems approach. Fulfilling whatever pattern a student selects will be under the guidance of a departmental adviser.

If prerequisites are lacking, permission to take a course may be requested of the department. Study of special topics related to the chosen pattern of courses or topics of interest not covered by course offerings may be accomplished by means of independent study (PHI 499).

Students may not count more than 6 credits toward the philosophy major from among the following courses: PHI 207, 208, 301, 302, 303, and 403. Students are strongly advised to complete a year of European history early in their program. For those contemplating graduate study in philosophy, a second foreign language is recommended.

MINOR IN PHILOSOPHY

The minor consists of 18 credits, selected with the advice of the department. Not more than 6 credits may be taken at the 100 level, and at least 6 credits must be taken at the 300 and/or 400 levels. PHI 296 and 306 are required. The philosophy seminar, which is optional for minors, may be taken only with the consent of the department. Students may count not more than three credits toward the minor from among the following courses: PHI 207, 208, 301, 302, 303, and 403.

COURSES

IDS 320 - Human Flourishing in the 21st Century
This interdisciplinary capstone focuses on two interrelated questions: what does it mean to live well in American in the 21st century? and; what is an individual's role and responsibility as a member of a larger community and environment? As a capstone project, students develop a thoughtful and coherent response to these questions, which they will then present as a poster presentation. The capstone project is a synthesis of four positions developed over the course of the semester as smaller unit projects dealing with the following interrelated themes: food, clothing and shelter, transportation, and population.
Prerequisite(s): 6 of 8 Tier 2 complete (Honors Coll.: 15 cr. HON or 45 cr. total), and prior or concurrent completion of all Tier 1 (Honors Coll.: T1MC and T1QR)

PHI 242 - Death and the Meaning of Life

One of the few certainties about life is that it is going to end. But what should we make of that fact and how might it influence our thoughts about the meaning of life? This course explores the work of philosophers and philosophical thinkers who have grappled with questions related to our mortality. Is death an evil? If so, how and why? Would immortality be desirable? What does it mean to say that a person has died? Why do we lament our post-mortem non-existence but not our pre-natal non-existence? Students will reflect on how our response to the end of life informs our view of the meaning of life and will propose, design, and produce a creative work which offers a view of the meaning of life and is cognizant of the inevitability of death.
