MAJOR PROGRAMS IN POLITICAL SCIENCE

The department of Political Science offers four undergraduate majors: Political Science B.S.; Political Science B.S. with teaching certification (7-12); Political Science B.A.; and Economics B.A. The programs in political science offer the student an understanding of the basic issues in government and politics from the local to the global level, as well as an acquaintance with the methods by which we study the subject. A political science major prepares the student for careers in government service, teaching, law, business, the mass media, international affairs, and organizations advocating public policy. The study of political science may also be of value to many students interested in informed participation in the public life of their society.

Students planning to major in political science may wish to specialize in one or more of the following areas:

American Politics

PSC 312 — Media, Polls, and American Politics

COURSES

PSC 130 - International Relations
No Description Available
Last Offered: Fall 2013
3 credits

PSC 150 - Thinking about Politics
Development of the critical thinking skills necessary for academic, professional, and personal success in life. Students will critically read classic approaches to the major dimensions of political conflict and consensus. They will also evaluate the arguments of modern incarnations of the classic debates in terms of the validity of their assumptions and the quality of their evidence. In evaluating evidence, the focus will be on developing competency in information literacy. By the end of the semester students will be able to identify their own political assumptions. The course will encourage civic engagement by empowering students to make well-reasoned and supported arguments.
Last Offered: Fall 2017
3 credits

PSC 200 - Political Change and Conflict
Analysis of conflicts among political, social, and economic groups within nations and the responses of governments through consensus, cooperation, or violence to maintain order or expand rights and opportunities.
Last Offered: Spring 2018
3 credits

PSC 210 - American Political Experience
Examination of the American political experience, including the historical development of the American political system, structures of power in American society, the relationship among politics, economy and culture in American society, and America’s relationship with the world.
